Message from the President

Happiness says it all!

Before this season and the laudable integrity requirements introduced by New Zealand Football, I had no idea that local matches could ever be a target for unscrupulous overseas bookmakers. Brought up on football in New Zealand, it is just something that never even seemed plausible but obviously this is not the case and all power to NZF for their action. To explain, all players registered to play for the Club in the Northern / National League have had to complete integrity training, as have the Club's Board and senior team support staff. I say again, this is a good thing and a reminder to us all that things are not always as they seem, and that there are those who would seek to profit from what we do on the grass.

I assume our integrity training is based on a FIFA model and if this is the case, I can see a conundrum. When I watch English or Spanish football to name but two, there is an incredible number of teams that are sponsored by betting companies. I wonder what message this sends to weekend, park footballers? Do the powers that be not see the irony, even hypocrisy of this?

On one hand we are quite rightly trying to keep our beloved game clean while on the other, we continue to welcome in the very industry that could destroy our integrity! At international level, the interface between profit and integrity is a fine line that I trust is well policed.

WELCOME WEST COAST RANGERS

Born from an amalgamation, our visitors today are the second of the two new clubs to visit Allen Hill in the last few weeks, and although they have had a tough start to their first campaign, there is sufficient experience and know-how in the club to see them prosper.

From the oldest football club in the country to one of the newest may I say we wish you well. Enjoy the day!

Message from the Head Coach

Welcome West Coast Rangers to Allen Hill. Albert has done a good job since taking over last month, putting themselves in touching distance to the chasing pack.

Our last league fixture against Wanderers was a well earned point against a side who have achieved more than any time in their recent history, particularly last summer. Taking 4 points from a possible 6 against them was a decent outcome for us. If we show the same grit and determination today, it should prove to be a good fixture. Enjoy the game.

Our heartfelt condolences to Roshan Kumar and his family after the sudden passing of his stepfather last week. Thoughts are with the family.
